The primary objective of a statement of cash flows is to provide relevant information about the cash flows between the entity and its environment. The net cash used in financing activities shows a decrease in cash over all 3 years. This is because a majority of the operations occurring within the entity are related to the financial activities section of the balance sheet. The cash used in investing activities also decreased over all 3 years. This is because a majority of the operations occurring within the entity are related to the investing activities section of the balance sheet. The cash provided by operating activities increased by $10,000 over all 3 years. This is because a majority of the operations occurring within the entity are related to the operating activities section of the balance sheet.
